

Sarah Hennessy

CILIP Health Libraries Group Joint Chair

- Across the NHS and healthcare sector more than a million decisions are made every day which affect all our lives
- Encourage decision-makers to utilise the skills of librarians to help them meet the duty under the Health and Social Care Act 2012 to use evidence from research
- Policymakers and providers need to ensure decisions are evidence-based
- Librarians to deliver evidence to the Board and the ward, to learners and to health professionals

The Project Team

- Nick Poole, CILIP
- Cat Cooper, CILIP

Reach of the campaign

- Thunderclap: the official launch was extremely wide-reaching with over a million impressions for the #amilliondecisions hashtag
- Helped to open doors for face to face meetings
- c100 Healthcare library staff have requested campaign news or assets including logos
- Campaign page in CILIP's Top 3 pages since launch
- The Republic of Ireland: #evidenceinformedhealthcare
- Scotland and Wales keen to run similar campaigns

Working with leaders across healthcare, sharing their image and quote

"If you want to know the answer, ask a librarian! Library and knowledge services are a hidden gem in our NHS. They can play a crucial role in making sure we always make decisions based on evidence. As a CEO and an STP lead, I know they are a useful partner to help drive transformation in health and care outcomes."

Rob Webster, STP Lead for West Yorkshire,
Chief Executive of South West Yorkshire
